WOOD VIEW 1838

A T-shaped house built by John Chambliss. The windows on the first level extend down the floor and have 20 panes in each. The mantel is carved out of wood. The floors are made of pine boards. Each of the rooms have a fireplace.

TAZEWELL ROBINSON HOUSE

Records show that Littleton Waller Tazewell, governor of Virginia from 1834-1836, spent a lot of time there.

LUNDY SCOTT PLACE 1840
called 'Oakland and Dry Bread Plantation'

OAK HURST OR JUNCTION FARM - 1790

It was called Junction Farm because it was at the junction of 2 railroads.

SPRING HILL 1856

called 'The White House'

George Washington crossed the bridge over the Mill at Hicks Ford April 10, 1776. He called it a small, but decent house. There was an ordinary in the house. Spring Hill has chimneys of local brick, probably brought from England as ballast.

BUTTS TAVERN - 1769

Scene of first Court 1781. Later Belfield Seminary.

THE HOUSE HOUSE - 1802

Birthplace of Lemonade Lucy Wabb in 1831. Her father (Dr. James Webb) owned the house. The house is located on Rt. 608 a few miles west of Purdy.

Nostalgiafest in Greensboro

BRUNSWICK COUNTY

Romanticized views of the 50's, the roaring 20's, the gay 90's, the antebellum South have been recurring themes revealing nostalgia for times past. With the county's preparations for the bicentennial, American history and Humanities classes explored the local scene. Mr. Don Tillar of the Camera Club showed slides of old houses of historical significance, some of which are no longer standing; some in need* of preservation and some now are recognized as registered landmarks by the State Historical Society.*

CEDAR LAWN
Better Known as Chapin Place

Famous for its magnolias and boxwood hedges planted over 100 years ago. The mantle in the living room, carved and painted white, is exactly like the one in Jefferson Davis' home in Richmond.

WALNUT HOUSE - 1820

Now the home of the Episcopal Diocese of Georgia, Walnut House was built by Hubert Smith, a local carpenter. The house is a fine example of the Greek Revival style, with its white columns and pediment.

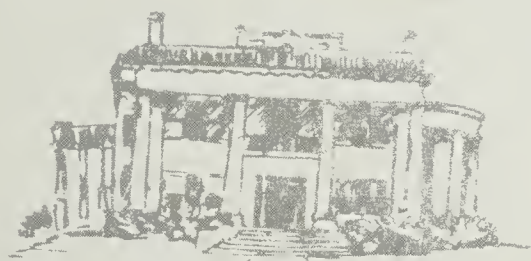

COWIE HOUSE - 1836
A fine example of the "Old Place"

This house was built for the Battle of the Bulge. It is a fine example of the Greek Revival style, with its white columns and pediment. The house is a fine example of the "Old Place".

In Tenth Year, Greenville's Unique Block
System Abandoned in Surprise Decision by School
Board; Quick Changes Mark Beginning of School Year

(2) On August 25, approximately 500 students followed new schedules converted from the experimental three two-hour classes a day to the old traditional six period day, reinstating study halls, some of which were held in the gym with students balancing their books on the bleachers under the watchful eye of Ms. Grizzard. Controversy raged, as many voiced discontent over the change. "I can't carry all these books around!" and "I don't have time to study all this stuff tonight!" were common laments as students shouldered their burden of books or tried to stuff them in overcrowded lockers. A longing for the good ole block system was evident in student comments. (1) A new principal, Mr. James Wilson and a new band director, Mr. Kenneth Smith seem pleased with the new facilities in the field house building just completed. (3) All decked out, the band struts its' stuff during the Peanut Festival Parade. (4) Cheerleader sponsor, Ms. Harrison and Mr. Wilson display the "Eagle Country" bumper stickers. (5) New school secretary, Mrs. Wilhoit, performs her duties. That's J. Greening, R. Krienbaum and A. Edwards getting late passes. (6) Squaws Liz Healy and Melody Holt, representing the Southampton Indians, get symbolically bounced by the team at the pep rally. An Eagle victory brought a terrific boost to the school spirit. (7) J. Richardson, J. Morgan and F. Turner append the new bumper stickers — proclaiming G.C.H.S. as Eagle Country. (8) The print shop goes to press in new quarters having moved from the trailer into the former Industrial Arts Shop. That's Mr. Edmonds instructing Joyce Turner. (9) I.C.T. students Sylvia Moody and William look into future careers via new microfish machine.

May-Day, Eats, Feats and Track Meets

The spring calendar filled up with an acceleration of student activities. After the success of the winter carnival in the gym, the SCA sponsored a combined spring carnival and May Day celebration, giving clubs a chance to set up game booths and concession stands. 1. Announcing the track events was Darnell Tucker. 2. Selecting something for the "sweet tooth", Donnie Usher and Sylvia Moody line up for sweets from the sweet Sandra Chandler, the Candy-Woman. 3. Did Chris Kempf hit the bucket? 4. William King (for is it King William) counts the number of overhead lifts performed by Danny Moore. 5. Sitting in the sun, students enjoyed the time out of class but did not participate enough to make the carnival a financial success.

The GCHS track team participated in the state meet held at James Madison University and made a good showing. Larry Wyche, Chuckie Barnes, Marvin Brown and Anthony Smith came in 3rd place in the mile relay. These four along with Bradley Smith were members of the 4-40 relay Championship Team. Under Coach Aiken, and Assistant Coach Edwards, track was a major sport.

Memories of Field Trips, Fun Friends and Prom Are Forever

Springtime brought busy times with an acceleration of school activities at home and away. (1) and (2) The ICT VICA had a fun day at King's Dominion. (3) Mr. Kiser, Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Roach and Mr. Phillips helped Miss Mitchell chaperone. Humanities classes spent the day in Washington. (4) In front of the Museum of Science, Kim Jones caught Pam Wilson, Mary Perkins, and Cindy Smith. (6) At the talent show, Jerry Powell made a surprise debut as "muscle man." May 16th was the big night of the 1980 Prom. The gym was decorated with blue foil accented with white spray-painted stars. Blue and white streamers hung from the ceiling along with white paper balls and silver balloons. A water fountain donned the middle of the dance floor. The theme of the dance was "Sparkle." Couples danced to the music of Power Play. Some of the couples who attended the prom were (7) Micheal Almasy and Denise Harris, (8) Betty Rhodes and Vester Richardson, (9) Greg Webb and Edna Johnson, (10) Billy Woodruff and Vicki Sasser and (11) Sharon Arrington and Larry Davis. (12) Home at last, Rodney Bradley reacts to the latest fashions from Washington modeled by Cindy Owen and Tricia Harding.

Graduation in the Spring

Graduating seniors wondered when "Diploma Day" would really be. Printed invitations announced June 6th but by having classes Easter week, usually snow-make-up or spring break, time was so gained and the end of school was set up to May 30th. Heavy rains descended the day before commencement and forboding skies brought a transfer of the ceremonies from the football field to the Emporia Elementary School Auditorium. Faculty, for the first time marched in full academic regalia and were seated on the stage. After an address by Dr. Alex James former president of Virginia Union University, now with the State Department of Education, one hundred sixty-six students were graduated.

(1) Seated on stage were the co-valedictorians, Mary Manson and Khursheed Siddiqui and Salutatorian Diane Wiley, who (2) was recipient of a thesarus from the Junior Women's Club for her winner essay.

(3) Mrs. Turner, President of GEA presents Brian Roberts with the GEA scholarship. Also sharing it was Audrey Cain. (4) Many Manson happily receives the Georgia Pacific Scholarship. (5) Ron Grizzard presents Will Vasser with the Mark E. Harris Award from Muscular Dystrophy. Will and Diane Wiley also shared in the Rockecharlie Scholarship. August Graduates: Front — Jerome Jackson, Wanda Doyle, Connie Wirntinen, Susan Adams, Barbara Lee. 2nd Row — Stanley Tillar Raymond Bell, Anthony Smith, Alonzo Jones, Stanley Allen, Vera Lee, and Venessa Peebles.

And Homecoming in the Fall are Social Highlights

The Social Fest gained momentum with each action-packed day as homecoming week generated a high pitch of excitement and school spirit. Lookin' good was not only the G.C.H.S. football team but also the G.C.H.S. halls, as Seniors, Juniors and Sophomores decked their portion. (2) Seniors put up balloons and streamers at the front entrance hall. All the classes created clever and colorful "promenade places." First place went to the Sophomores. (3) The best-dressed of the "country and western day" showed-off on Wednesday. The football team was honored Thursday at lunch and that night at the bonfire. (1) They burned an effigy of the Randolph-Henry Statesman. Friday was Green and Gold day as students wore school colors and participated in a rousing pep rally. The intense spirit climaxed at the game Friday night, Oct. 17, when the Eagles won 69 to ZIP.

Homecoming Half-Time

A caravan of convertibles carried the contestants onto the court and the crowning of the Queen. Anticipation and suspense were finally relieved by the announcement with fanfare from the band of the '80 Homecoming Queen.

Social Fest Synthesizes School Spirit

Fun and games were part of Homecoming Week as students engaged in the flirtatious trickery of the "I Resist" contest. Collecting the most buttons were (1) Ms. Irresistible, Mamie Ricks and (2) runner-up Robin Brantley and (4) Mr. Irresistible, Roy Harrison, with runner-up Mike Sledge (left). Through homeroom nominations and coin collection, Chris Harrison, (3) and Sylvia Moody (5) were named Mr. and Miss Spirit at the pep rally. Riding onto the field in convertibles, at half-time, were the Queen contestants and attendants. (8) Running back onto the field were the Eagles who soared to victory over the Statesmen. (9) Mr. Owen, Mr. Byers, Mr. Wilhoit and Mr. Phillips, Athletic Director, viewed the game from the press box. (10) Cheerleaders socialize with the court and courtiers. (11) Queen Tillar dances with cowboy Thomas Adams to the music provided by Penn and Loria B. while (12) Linda Sasser and Timmy Rice sit this one out at the Homecoming Dance. Midnight marked the end of a perfect day — and a perfect week — the perfect subject for a future Nostalgia Fest.

Combined Efforts Contribute to Success of Fall Sports Scene

Supported by chanting cheerleaders, the pep squad, enthusiastic fans and the Marching Eagles' Band, the football Eagles and later the Basketball Eaglettes got off to a better than usual season under new coaches and sponsors. Ms. Harrison became cheerleader sponsor working with (1)

Tanya Atkins, Charlene Jordan, Charlotte Flemming, Marcia Robinson, Kelly Kempf, Shelia Green, Suzanne Diefert and Linda Sasser. (2) The Band played at all home games. (3) Assistant football coaches, Mr. Lee and (4) Mr. Adams and player Anthony Crichton consult with head coach, Mr. Canaday. (5) G.C.H.S. principal, Mr. Wilson, congratulates Ricky Turner after his two touchdowns in the homecoming game. (6) McArthur Pair kicks the ball through the goal for an extra point. All the extra efforts paid off on the promotion of school spirit.

Acting as a barometer for school spirit, the first pep rally set the stage for the elation that was felt when the Eagles were victorious over old arch rival, the Southampton Indians in the very first game of the season. This made the news media and was the topic of conversation for some time as the Eagles continued to battle towards the District

Championship. Rousing pep rallies, skits and hall posters all contributed to the anticipation of every game and each victory brought a new high in school spirit. For the first time in several years, the Eagles put it all together to bring home two trophies to proud, supporting fans.

Self-Discipline Pays Off As Eagles Become District Champions

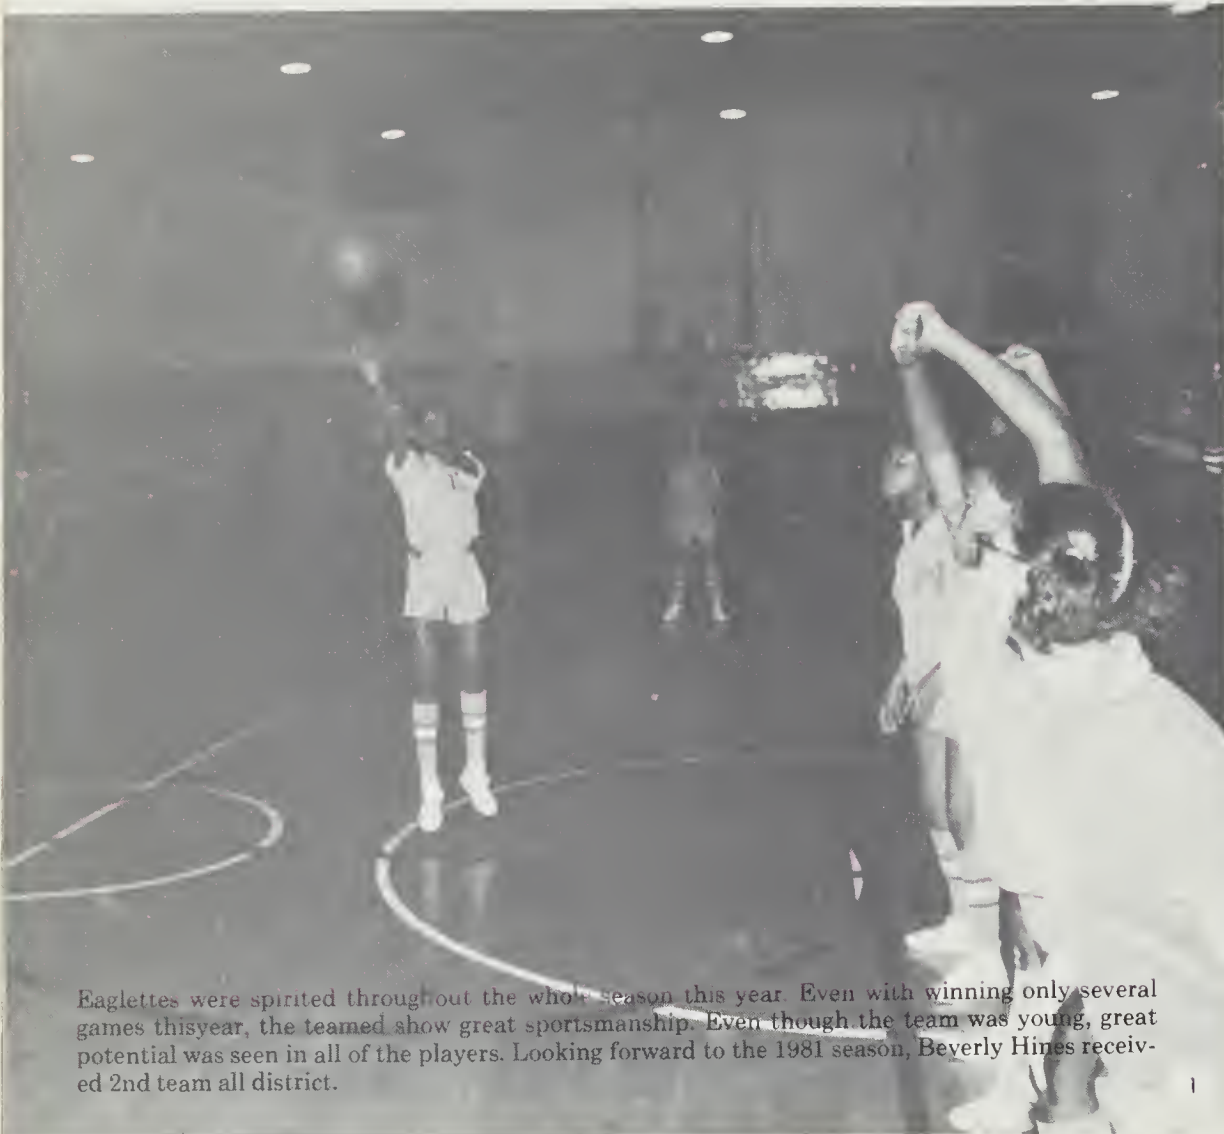

The wings of a new decade brought a winning attitude to the Greenville "Eagle" football program. Leadership provided by 13 T.D., 1100 yard rusher, Marvin Brown, sparked a star-studded offensive unit to 231 points scored, while a stubborn defensive corps allowed only 45 points to their opponents, and the "Eagles" flew to an 8 and 2 regular season mark and their first Southside District Championship since 1969. The success enjoyed during the 1980 season boosted school and community interest, not only in football but, in the entire GCHS athletic program. In spite of losing 17 outstanding seniors, winning football has definitely returned to Greenville County and even bigger things are forseen for the "Eagles" in the future.

Varsity Team Has Ups and Downs

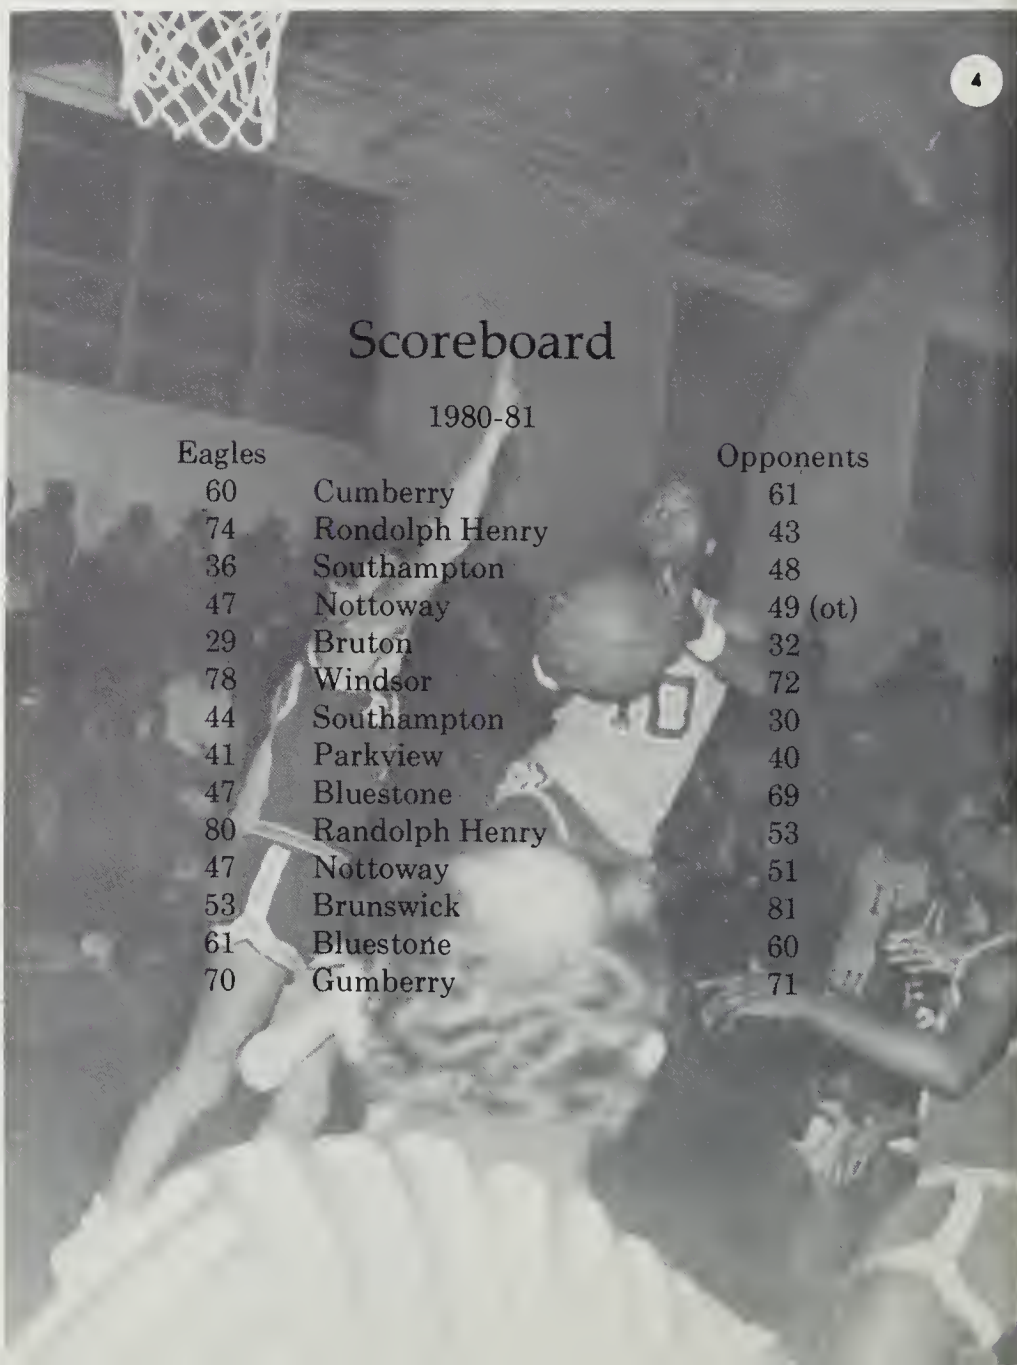

The G.C.S.H. Basketball Season entered the Southside District with Coach Henry "Hank" Atkins.

Early season saw the Eagles at defeat 60-61 by Gumberry squad. On the next contest, it was an impressive victory (74-43) over Randolph Henry. The Eagles looked ahead to travel Route 58 for a major upset against Southampton which resulted in a 36-48 defeat. The rematch was convincing as the Eagles "stormed" the Indians 44-30. One of the most impressive victories came months later when the Eagles had a rematch with Bluestone who had a 9 game winning streak. The streak burned out as the Eagles kept the fans on their feet. The Eagles closed the "book" with a 61-60 victory as pay back from a 47-69 whipping.

The team's compiled Stats consist of a 40% FG avg., 55% FT avg., 43 Rebounds per game, 16 turnovers, 10 assists and 55.0 Scoring average per game.

(1) Alvin Johnson shoots a jump shot against Bruton. (2) Jerry Owens grabs a rebound while Willie Gillus watches against Gumberry. (3) Maurice Jones glides to the basket. Golf Makes Comeback Under Coach Canaday

GOLF TEAM: Coach Jerry Canaday, Tim Vassar, Donnie Newsome, Sandra Kei, Vincent Belmonte, Susan Kientz, Robert Kapinos, and Pam Kientz.

This was the first golf team for Greensville County High School since the early seventies and for the initial year it was considered a successful one. The team won one match, defeating Lloyd C. Bird of Chesterfield County but played in the Southside District Tournament held at Brandermill Golf Club in Richmond, placing sixth. Freshman Vincent Belmonte qualified for the regional tournament played on the Suffolk Municipal Golf Course and he proved our players could compete with the regions best by firing a 94 on the very difficult Suffolk layout. This year's squad was very young consisting of one senior, one junior, two sophomores, and three freshmen.

Lee Johnson, captain, Melvin Branch and Vince Miller, co-captains of the Jr. Varsity.

Since SCA elections had not been held in the spring, the first 1980-81 SCA activity was the election of officers. Two slates of officers qualified — one headed by Pete Gibson and the other by Darnell Tucker. Darnell's slate was victorious.

(1) The Installation Ceremony was held on September 26, 1980, with SCA co-sponsor Mr. F.D.O. Black presiding and (2) Mr. Robert C. Wrenn, Clerk of the County Court, delivering the address and installing the new president, Darnell Tucker. Darnell then installed the other officers in turn. The SCA sponsored student activities, including the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies. A poem written by Dennis Dunn made into a wall-length scroll was to be mailed to the hostages in Iran.

The darkness, oh, so cold,
The pain within us,
How tightly we hold.

Open up those golden gates
Let us love, Lord
Those who Hate.

We shall rise, all humble and bold
Americans the beautiful
With love that never grows old.

Thanksgiving is gone, now it's Christmas time
Thoughts of you roam our minds
Help remove that imaginary line;
Reunite us in joy and happiness we'll find

We'll reach out happily, to show our love.
It's Christmas time, and It's you we're thinking of,
Merry Christmas!

Guidance Office and Library

Responsible for numerous student services from career planning, scheduling of classes to testing, poll-taking, parent and student conferences, guidance counselors Mrs. Vassar and Mr. Walton experienced "double trouble" when after setting up student schedules, everything had to be done again when the "block" units abolished in mid-summer and the 6 period day of a decade ago was reinstated along with study halls. That, with added research involving student statistics and mounting duties the Guidance together manages to put it all together. They set up testing schedules for SRA, PSAT, SAT, ASVAB, GATB, and competencies in American History and Government. Interpretation of scores was a useful tool in career planning as was the College Day Program.

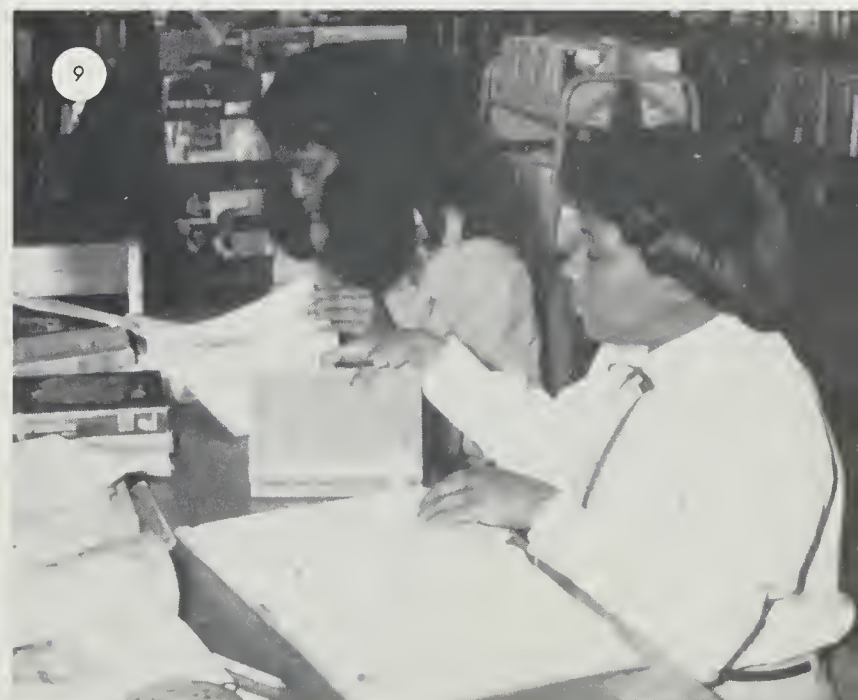

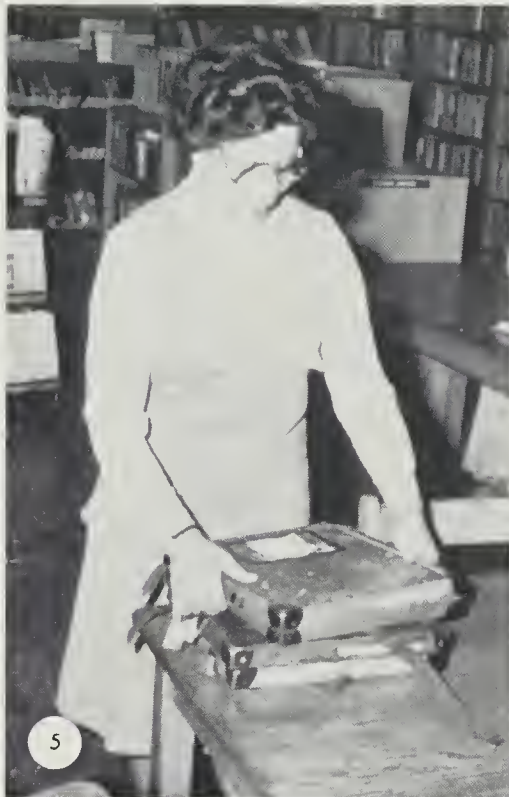

(1). Joan Wyatt and Laura Carroll listen to College Day representatives. (2). Mr. Walton and Mrs. Watkins straighten it out. (3). Mrs. Vassar gives Laura Mason, Aide materials to file away.

Are Information Centers

The GCHS Library-Media Center is a well organized space containing over 10,000 books, sixty or more different magazines, and many newspapers. (Anyone need a current event? — a book report? — or a biographical sketch of Anton Fuechtwanger? Col. Sanders may have made millions with his Kentucky Fried Chicken recipe — but just think how much has been made on the hot dog! Glad they didn't call it the Anton Fuetchtwanger dog.) Check it out at the library, or if you need a reference book, use it in the undisturbed atmosphere of the library, where Mrs. Russell, Librarian-Media Specialist keeps the peace.

Co-Ed Hi-Y Club Hosts District Conference

Going in alphabetical order, it was G.C.H.S. next on the list to host the district Hi-Y workshop. On Saturday, November 22, cars and busloads of Hi-yers arrived. About 250 members met in the gym. (1) Bobby Wrenn, County Clerk and former Hi-Y President, welcomed the group. (2) A representative from Mechanicsville is at the podium while Mrs. Beaman confers with Mr. Johnson, Director of Virginia Y.M.C.A. and coordinator of the Model General Assembly.

District elections were held and several G.C.H.S. students won — Bobby Boone became page and Rahksheed Siddiquii, lobbyist, for the district MGA. A bill to provide for contract negotiations for all public employees was drafted by Mrs. Price and Pam Wilson. It will be presented to the Senate by Cindy Smith and to the House by Pam Wilson at the MGA held at the State capitol in April.

Beta Club Honors Achievement

The Beta Club is a non-profit leadership-service organization for high school students. Its purpose is to stimulate effort, reward achievement, and encourage its members to continue their education after high school.

To be tapped into the Greenville Co. Beta Club, a student must have a worthy character, a commendable attitude, and a minimum grade point average of 3.2.

The Beta Club decorates the school Christmas tree each year. Also, the members look forward to going to state convention each year. This year, the Beta Club cooked a mud-dle to raise the money that would enable them to go to convention. This year's was held March 20-22 in Norfolk.

The Officers of the 1980-81 Beta Club are Albert Delbridge, treasurer; Gene Doyle, vice president; Marian Selby, president; Kim Jones, secretary; and Timmy Richardson, parliamentarian. MEMBERS: Row 1 — Rose Butts, Bessie Tillar, Wanda Chandler, Marian Selby, Gene Doyle, Anita Rose, Joan Wyatt. Row 2 — Bridget Sweat, Colette McBeth, Vicki Sasser, Pete Gibson, Pam Wilson, Molly Carroll, Myra Ingram, Tricia Harding. Row 3 — Tina Brown, Albert Delbridge, Joan Charrette, Julia Warriner, Kim Jones, Valerie Johnson, Rodney Bradley, Cheryl Andrews. Row 4 — Denise Harris, Timmy Richardson, Harold Chesnut, Ronney Harvey, Robert Kapinos, Edward McBeth.

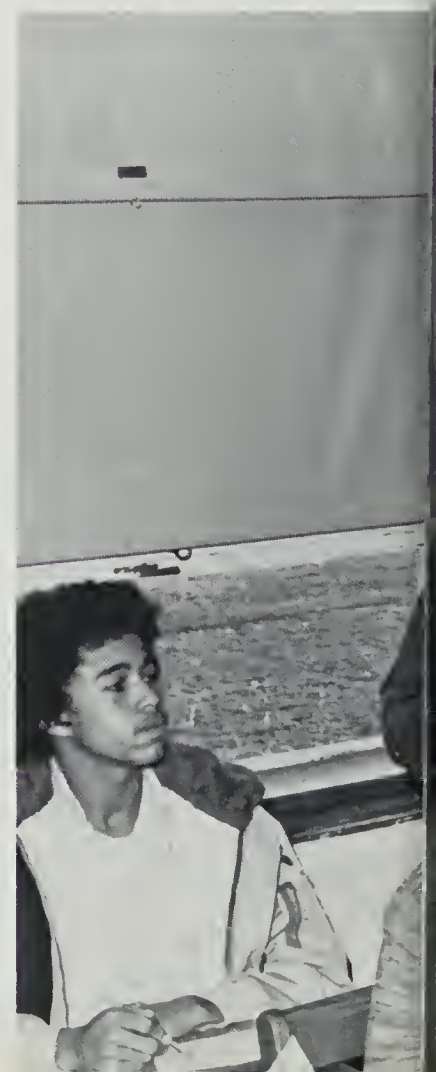

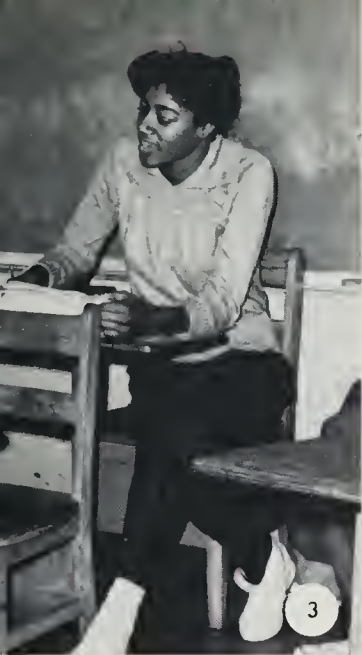

English and Humanities Classes

Study Life Through Literature

With the elimination of Speech and Journalism electives this year, English and Humanities teachers became the main catalysts for Speech and writing skills through related classroom assignments. Book reports, written and oral, essays and research papers all developed communication skills but it was in literature that the students were exposed to a sharpened perception of every facet of human nature as revealed in Shakespeare's plays and the writings of other recognized authors from the ancient Greeks to the modern existentialists. The Humanities Department lost the art corollation enjoyed last year under Mrs. Sant but gained Mrs. Price as a new team teacher. Mr. Kempf substituted for Mrs. Scott during her leave of absence and sent the students on a fact finding foray. It's a good thing that some products are not named for their inventor. How would you like to ask for a Feuchwanger instead of a hot dog?

Ferreting out unusual facts, satisfying an academic curiosity rather than just fulfilling a required assignment are the "Hallmarks of Scholarship."

French and Spanish Classes Sing for Christmas Program

Foreign Language Classes were not all drill and exercises. As Christmas approached sounds of "Feliz Navidad", "Noch Le Paz", "Vive le Vent" and "Les Anges dan's Nos Campagnes" in French were heard coming from Room 111 as classes practiced for the Christmas concert under the direction of Mrs. Povar.

(1) The French class sang acapella. (2) Accompanying the Spanish songs on guitar was David Wyatt. (3) David Wyatt. (4) John Manson, Cindy Smith, Mary Perkins, Christine Justice, and Velma Banks await the signal to rehearse. (5) Getting tuned up are Jennifer High, Velma Banks, Mrs. Povar, Queen Tijlar, and Anita Bryant.

Foregoing the traditional Christmas banquet, the Foreign Language Club had an after school party and planned excursions to restaurants to sample real French and Spanish cuisine.

First Play With Integrated Cast Produced

Where there is a will — there's a way. Mr. Segedy and a group of interested students proved that it could be done. Meeting after school, this volunteer group rehearsed the old favorite, "A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens and came up with an entertaining and hilarious version to which the student body audience readily related. Michael Stephens, as Scrooge, "stole the show" with his characterization of a modern day black miser. Colette McBeth gave a strong performance as Marley's ghost, The Spirit of Christmas Past, and Present. She also played the part of Scrooge's nephew's wife. Bertha Hicks was the Ghost of Christmas Future. Many of the cast doubled up on the parts — John Manson as Bob Cratchit and Mr. Fizzywig, Robert Boone as a Gentleman and Peter Cratchit, Molly Carroll was Mrs. Cratchitt, Liz Healy was Tiny Tim and a "boy." Belinda and Martha Cratchit were Wendy Dobie and Bertha Hicks. Karl Owens was Fred, Scrooge's nephew.

Throughout the action, a props crew did a superb job of changing the sets for each scene before our eyes. The putting together of the simplified scenery on the gym floor without a stage or lighting was an ingenious bit of planning which in itself should be recognized as quite an accomplishment. The changes were not obtrusive, everything fell into place with precision and the pace of the play continued smoothly to a happy ending. It was a memorable happening — thanks to the efforts of a small group who cared enough to try something which had never been done here before.

Augmenting the Christmas mood was the traditional band concert with the added attraction of Mr. Wilson reading "Twas the Night Before Christmas," accompanied by the concert band under the direction of Mr. David Smith. (1) Carols too, filled the air in French and Spanish taught in Foreign Language classes by Mrs. Povar. G.C.H.S. was the scene of Christmas spirit visibly present.

The Forensic Club barely got started before Mrs. Scott, sponsor, took leave of absence for two months, but the group rallied in time to get to the Regional Meet held at Longwood College, February 5. Travelling in cars driven by Mrs. Scott and Mr. Segedy, nine students brought in a second place showing for G.C.H.S. and a number of them will go on to the State competition. Laura Carroll, a sophomore, placed first in extemporaneous speaking. Gene Doyle won a first place award in spelling. Chris Harrison won 2nd place in boys prose reading; Bobby Boone won 2nd place in boys poetry reading; David Wyatt won 2nd place in boy's original oratory; Tina Brown won 3rd place in girl's poetry; Rose Butts won 3rd place in girl's prose; Kim Jones won 3rd place in girl's original oratory; and John Manson won 4th place in boy's extemporaneous.

Social Studies Department Sponsors History Club, Encourages Voter Registration

In Social Studies classes which include World History, American History, Government, and Citizenship participation was the key to learning. Keeping up on current events, research for speeches and debates, projects which included Thanksgiving and Christmas feasts, made these courses pleasant and palatable. Government students eagerly helped out at the polls November 4, and Mr. Lee's and Mrs. Price's classes sponsored a mock presidential election at which Mr. Theodore Burr, representing the Republican platform and Mr. Wade Ferguson, representing the Democratic platform gave speeches at a school assembly and answered questions. At a poll taken of the student body, incumbent President Carter was the winner but in the actual election, Mr. Reagan won by a landslide.

Eleventh graders found themselves taking competency tests in American History and seniors in Government for the first time as a pilot study for the State Board of Education.

The History Club, sponsored by the Department planned a series of mini-seminars for all students in school. A Parliamentary Procedure Clinic was conducted by Mr. Kientz in two sessions attended each time by approximately forty students. Sherrie Black from Nottoway High School gave instruction in Self Defense. Other programs were Personal Development by Mrs. Price, Good Sportsmanship by Mrs. Harrison, Student Rights by Mr. Lee, Religious Toleration by Mrs. Moore, a forum on "The Flag — Why Salute?", a speaker from the Embassy of Israel and movies after school for Black History Week.

Math and Science Classes Coordinate Club Activities

Students taking Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, Physics, Biology, Chemistry and Consumer Math were encouraged to join the Science-Math Club and to prepare for the competitive tests. On the appointed Saturday in March, busloads of students from every school in the district traveled to St. Paul's College in Lawrenceville where tests determined the top students in the various categories, who would go on to the state conference which alternates between Virginia State University or Hampton Institute.

Before the energy crunch, other field trips were a part of the club activities. Most students would agree that the trips by bus to these campuses were both fun and learning experiences.

Business Courses Teach Job Skills

Typing and General Business, Typing I, Offices Services, Stenography, and Clerk-typist courses all offer a variety of valuable skills needed on the local job market. In these business classes the students learn much of what they need to know about office practices and procedures. They learn also how to efficiently operate the latest office equipment and gain some of the experience needed to enter the work world.

Take dictation at 100 w.p.m., and type at 70 w.p.m. are some of the accomplishments of the hardworking group making up the F.B.L.A. Under the direction of Mrs. Meirs, Mrs. Pugh, Mrs. Bennett, and Mrs. Martin, students work hard during the school year to get their business practices to their peak. In March they take their hard-worked-for-talents to the F.B.L.A. Convention at Virginia State to compete among other business students.

In between all the hard work the F.B.L.A. members find plenty of time for fun. They showed their respect and pride for their school this year by cleaning up the football field after each home game, and they celebrated Christmas with a fun packed Christmas party. These students are so proud of their organization that they signify it with a Business Dress Up Day each Thursday.

Art Classes Work Towards Bicentennial Exhibit

The art program has undergone many changes during the past decade. During the early "70's" there were three teachers and art corrolation in the Humanities. Now there is one teacher who is further handicapped by the change from the two period block which is ideal for studio classes to six short periods and a tremendous storage problem for the work done by the doubled student enrollments. Art students enjoyed making Christmas ornaments, sending over a hundred glittered and glued angels, wisemen, creche figures to the Avis B. Adams Christian Convalescent Center so that every patient would have one. Exploration of the local scene was part of the bicentennial emphasis as advanced students painted houses, and studied architectural styles. The predominately OPT beginning classes studied the elements of art structure. All worked towards bicentennial-related projects for the May exhibition.

Standing — Mrs. Collins, Joyce Scott, Rosa Bailey, Shurby Garrett, Janet Mason, Laura Mason.

In this day of women's lib, the men are going to have to know the practical aspects of homemaking whether the future holds a bachelor apartment or a vine-covered cottage where the wife has a job outside the home. This year, two male students enrolled in the Consumer and Homemaking Class and have kept up with the girls in sewing, home nursing, and child development, home management, energy conservation, foods and nutrition units; who knows, they may even make a career in the field of home-economics. Clothing occupation classes learned to operate industrial sewing machines, make clothes, learned alterations and repair, fibers and weaves. They repaired the football jerseys for the team.

The FHA Club made their annual trip to States fair in Richmond last fall. They sold candy apples at Homecoming, and sold Eagle key rings. They attended a leadership workshop at Bluestone Middle School and the State FHA conference. Other projects were to make and sell chocolate Easter eggs to raise money for a trip to King's Dominion.

ICT — VICA Coordinates on the Job Training

The I.C.T. Program is an on-the-job training program. Every student must have a job within the community. The I.C.T. program builds strong ties between the school and the community. I.C.T. students are also members of the VICA Club. The club works toward serving the community and preparing its members for leadership in the world of work.

Auto Mechanics Classes Service Cars

Does your car need overhauling? If so, Mr. Hines and his Auto Servicing Classes can be of help.

In the Auto-Servicing Class, students are given instruction on the basic service of an automobile. Students, upon leaving the class, are able to service such systems as brakes, fuel delivery, ignition-primary and secondary, cooling system, lubricating, systems and have a working knowledge of the electrical system.

Vo-Tech Provides Training in Areas of Local Need

Located on a fifty-five acre tract, the Vocational Training Center began with an agricultural program providing actual experience in farming crops, compatible to the area — corn, peanuts, cotton, soybeans. Repair and maintenance of farm machinery was implemented. (1) Alfred Davis tries his hand with the torch. (2) Mr. Mason gave instructions in bronze welding exercises for agricultural special needs. (3) Drafting students D. Moore and (4) A. Fleming learn rudiments of mechanical drawing. The center through the “70’s” expanded and included building trades classes.

Future Farmers of America Get Experience

Planting, harvesting, repairing machinery sounds like hard work but FFA members know there is a season for everything and after the harvest, the trip to the State Fair in Richmond. Other fun activities are the various contests which included crop judging, livestock judging, machinery performance, and test driving. FFA CLUB: Kevin Williams; President, Anthony Anderson, Jeffrey Aikens, Leon Ferguson. Row 2 — Ronnie Johnson, Curtis Smith, Gerald Faison; Vice-President. Row 3 — Barry Allen; Reporter, Willie Power. (Not Pictured — Larry Pope; Secretary, Percell Peebles; Treasurer, and Reginald Hardy; Secretary.) A first for the club was the issuance of membership cards and certificates. Members studied Parliamentary procedures to prep for the competition at St. Paul's College. Speech contests brought a first place for Kevin Williams and a third place at Park View for Gerald Faison.

Drafting, Building Trades Classes Teach Skills Needed for Service Jobs

In a technological society which stresses higher education and college degrees, it is increasingly difficult to get a plumber, electrician or mason to take care of household emergencies which arise when the products of technology break down and need repair. Vital to our future is a reassessment of attitude towards jobs requiring skilled labor. To be realistic, not just nostalgic, we need to develop an appreciation for and acknowledge the dignity of doing labor with one's hands as did our forebearers whose energy and work ethic built our nation. We will never outgrow the need for building, repairing and maintaining the labors of man. Elimination of Journalism Class Works Hardship on Eagle '81 Production

Without the Journalism class whose two-hour block gave students time to go out during school hours to solicit ads, draw layouts, and type copy, the volunteer staff dwindled to too few who were faithful to the end. Only half the number of ads were sold. Many businesses weren't even contacted. Staff who came to work from study halls found Mrs. Manson dealing with difficulties derived from the demise of the block system — added art classes, too short a time to complete studio activities, storage problems for student work left behind. "I should be two people" sighed Mrs. Manson as students in art class and annual staffers in art office all clamored for help. Without a class which could be graded for what they did on the yearbook, with the demands of a new publishing company, and the frustration of missed deadlines due to late delivery of — and lost pictures, the pressures built up. "Nevermore" muttered Mrs. Manson as she and co-editors Shelby Crickenberger and Colette McBeth struggled to meet the final deadline.

Graphic Arts Presses Roll in Former Industrial Arts Shop

With the dismantling of the Industrial Arts Department at G.C.H.S. and its shipment to the Junior High School, Mr. Edmonds moved the Graphic Arts Department from the trailer into the larger space, which for 26 years had been the woodworking shop. One of the recommendations from the state evaluation last year was that the heavy presses should be on a cement floor. The trailer floor was no longer considered safe to bear all the additional weight of new machinery which had been added during the past decade. An apparent drawback was that the trailer temperature was kept at a level year-round, due to air conditioning. The shop is a much larger area to air condition, a necessity to keep film and chemicals at the correct temperature — and a problem yet to be solved. Meanwhile, the presses have been rolling out football programs, special assembly programs, Thanksgiving and Christmas programs, school brochures, P.T.A. notices, letterheads, envelopes, and tickets. Placemats and notecards designed for Mrs. Manson for the Greenville Historical Society were a part of the school's cooperation with the community in the Bicentennial celebration.

Plaque Presented by Muscular Dystrophy
Mark A. Harris Scholarship Established

Mark A. Harris

Harold Chesnut, D.A.R. Recipient

MARK ALLEN HARRIS

EXHIBITED OUTSTANDING COURAGE
IN OVERCOMING HIS HANDICAP,
ACHIEVING SCHOLASTICALLY
AND LIVING LIFE TO THE FULLEST.

JULY 17, 1960 - AUGUST 7, 1977

Association

A plaque in memory of Mark A. Harris was installed in the front hall of G.C.H.S. last summer by the Muscular Dystrophy Association. It had been three years since Mark rolled up the ramp and down the front hall on his electric wheel chair. Maintaining Honor Roll grades through the eleven years in the Greenville County Schools. It was most fitting that a scholarship be awarded in his honor. The first scholarship was given to '80 graduate Will Vassor.

From three candidates NOMINATED by the Senior class Harold Chesnut was voted to receive the Honor of the DAR AWARD after all the speeches were given by the nominees who told of their community service. Harold also attended the Model Executive Government Conference, July 6-10 at the University of Richmond to learn about state government. He was chosen to play the role of Governor at the Conference.

Every summer outstanding students from Virginia High Schools are selected to attend a month of classes on three college campuses — Mary Washington College in Fredericksburg, Mary Baldwin College in Stannton or Randolph Mason Women's College in Lynchburg, where the Governor's School for the GIFTED is held. Robert Kapinos is pictured below, the G.C.H.S. nominee for his achievement in math and science.

Three New Members Added to School Board During '80-'81

After much controversy over the method of appointment of school Board members, a referendum November 4, voted out the electoral Board and placed the responsibility into the hands of the Board of Supervisors. The Electoral Board had first appointed Mr. Keith Mitchell, editor of the Independent Messenger to replace Mr. T. J. Barrett. Then, after Mr. Mitchell was seated on the Board and voted on vital issues such as changing the block system successfully implemented at the two high schools cooperating with the Vo-Tech during the past decade, it was found that due to residence, Mr. Mitchell was ineligible. Then the Electoral Board appointed Mr. Mike Ferguson. After the settling of the county-city suit whereby the city paid Greenville $680,950 for the city's share of the cost of operating local schools, two school board seats to give the city representation on the School Board were given to Mrs. Connie Drake Wilson and Mr. Allen Sharette bringing the total number on the combined board to six members.

Shuttle Continues Between GCHS and Vo-Tech

Though "talk" through the years expressed the possibility of making the Vocational Technical Center a self-contained facility, when busing to blocks at the Junior and Senior High Schools would no longer be necessary, such was not the case with the sudden demise of the block system last summer in a surprise move by the School Board. Classes at Vo-Tech were still 2 hour blocks but classes at the high schools reverted back to the traditional fifty minute periods presenting problems in the shuttle and the shuffle of students back and forth. With new principal, Mr. Wilson, and the efforts of Guidance the conversion to the 6 period day was completed for school opening — to a year of new schedules, new principal, new secretary — and new adjustments.

Sitting Pretty, Feeding Faces, and Freaking Out Are Fun Times

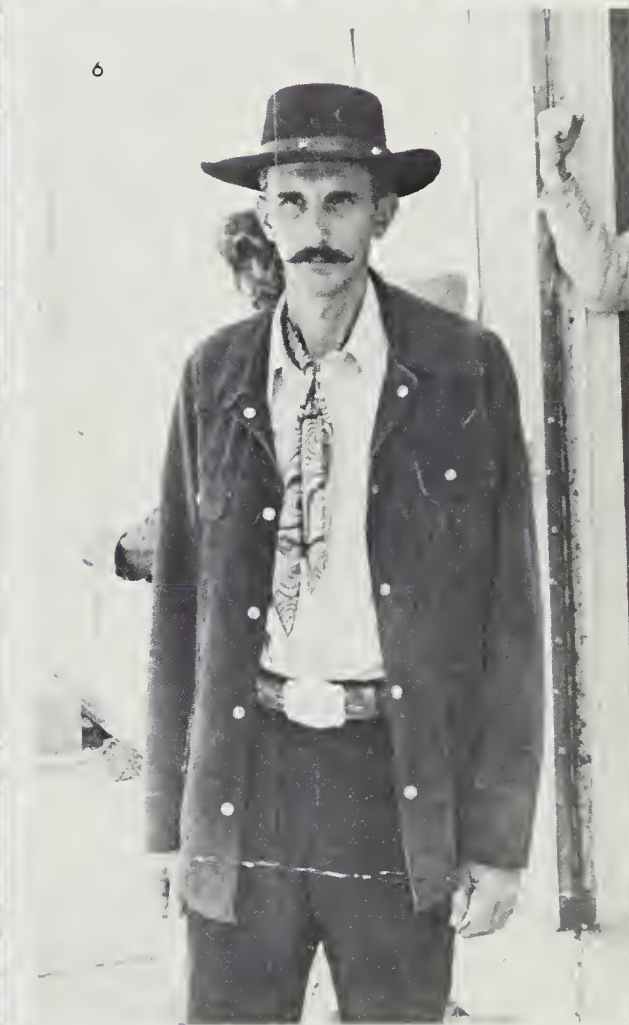

(1) Stephanie Mincey, Marquitta Russell and Natalie McKinley are basketball fans. (2) Stuffing it, is Frederick Hicks who knows how to put it away. (3) Laura and Molly Carroll are sitting pretty. (4) Feeding faces are Ray Allen, Mike Sledge, Burt Lynch, Mike Rawlings, and John Morris. (5) Freaking out are

Tim Byers, Troy Whitehead, Greg Byers, and Tim Richardson. (6) Wanted: Mr. Kientz, the famous cattle rustler from Jarratt (in a post office poster! or is it in the flesh on Country and Western Day?)

(1) S. Crickenberger and D. Harris "help" M. Selby on with her cap. (2) V. Sasser gets T. Clary's permission to come to school.

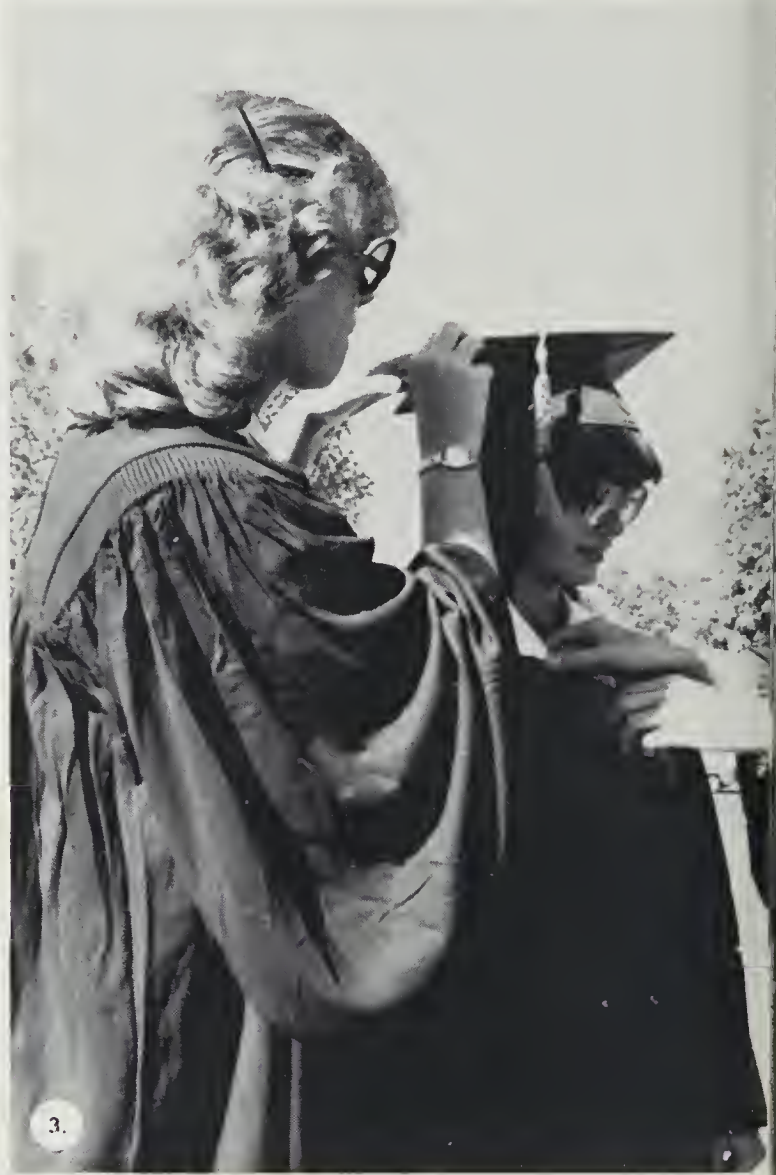

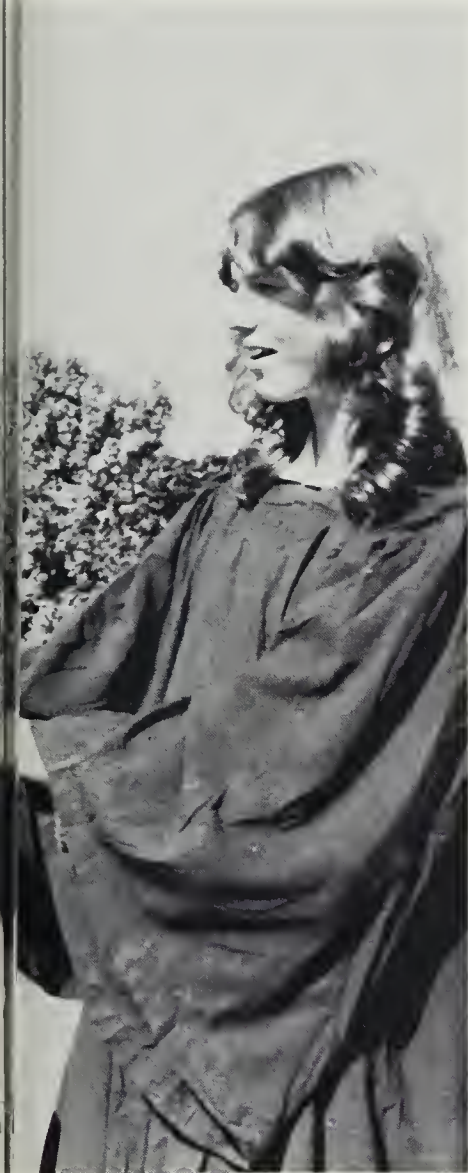

(3) B. Tillar and V. Sasser wonder who will win the Homecoming Queen title. (4) T. Grizzard shows us what she's made of. (5) Mrs. Young asks B. Sweat if it says "Comment tallez vous!" (6) Mr. Wilson says, "Cheese." (7) These students try to "fly" out of school. (8) Mr. Kientz's first block class shows us the right way to party. (9) C. Justice says "Look Ma, no cavities!!!" (10) H. Chestnut took over Mr. Lee's government class when he "suddenly" stepped out.

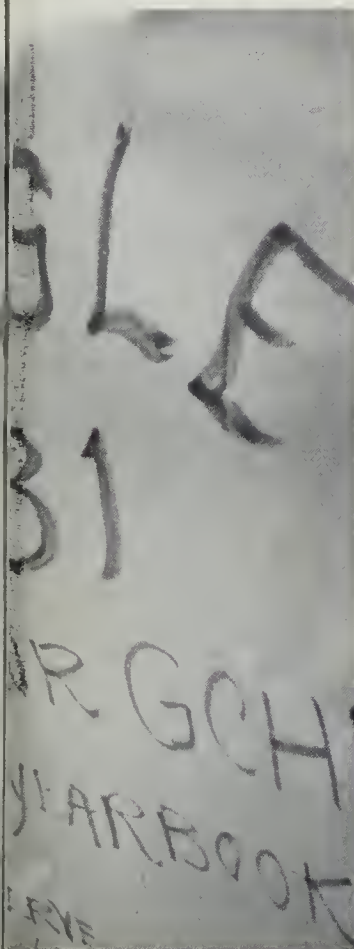

Parades, After Graduation Plans,

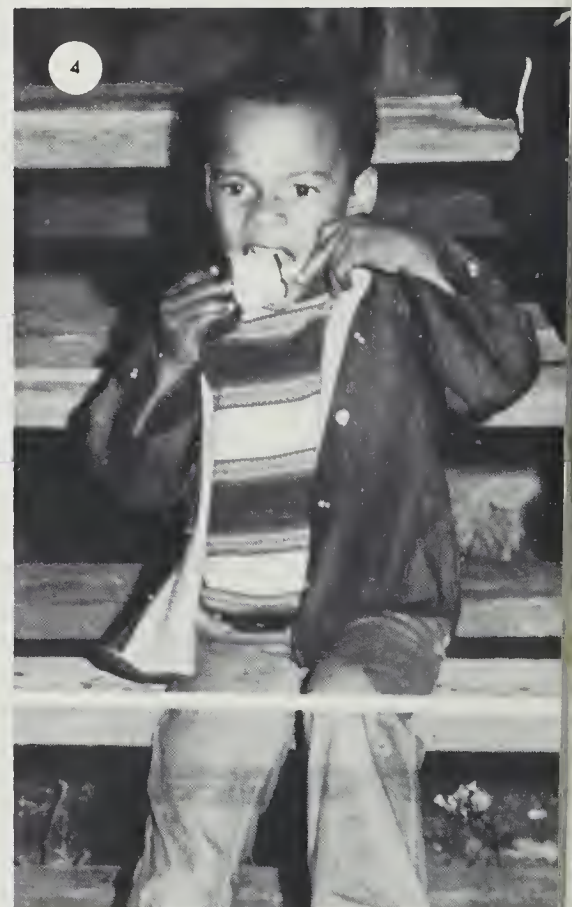

Posing for Cap and Gown Pictures Find Place in Busy Schedules

(1) Janice Brown carries the flag. (2) Sgt. First Class William Norris, U.S. Army Recruiter signs on Stephen Burnette. (3) Shelby Crickenberger and Denise Harris help top student Marian Selby get ready for pictures. (4) Who is that Eagle and walking yearbook. (5) Lynn Harvery is a sweet girl. January Graduate don white for the march in June. (6) Alan Williams was advanced art student "lives" in Room 116. (7) Edwin McBeth, Richard Brown, Danny Staton, John Ross and Milton Nichols take five from Math Class. (8) Allen Harrison and Patty Clark were in the Homecoming court.

(1 & 8) The cheerleaders show how to strut their stuff to please the people. (2) M. Ingram and T. Grizzard relax after practicing how to chew gum. (3) J. Warner and D. Harrell do their homework while in Miss Grizzard's study hall. (4) "M-m-m, this is good!" (5) Pam Davis enjoys Nettie McDonald's account of her trip to Canada last fall. (6) "Now that we're up here, — how do we get down?" (7) Tawarna Banks had a lot of fun at Homecoming. (9) Mrs. Moore gives the history of how to open doors. (10) This group really knows how to cheer the team on.

Individuals Make the School Scene

At G.C.H.S. the people may work hard, but they also know how to have fun. These may be your average students, but they show qualities which make them individual people. With all the clubs and activities which are offered, every person has his/her choice as to which one he/she will choose.

As it was once said, "The world may be divided into people that read, people that write, people that think," and us. I'm just happy that no two people are just alike, because that certainly would be a dull world and a dull school.

Final Days at G.C.H.S. Bring Mixed Emotions

The class of "81," on its last leg of a 12 year relay, thinks not only of the future and its potential but reminisces on the years past. The anticipation of graduating from student to independent gives the thrill of a challenge as well as fear of uncertainties in coping with the world beyond the walls of GCHS.

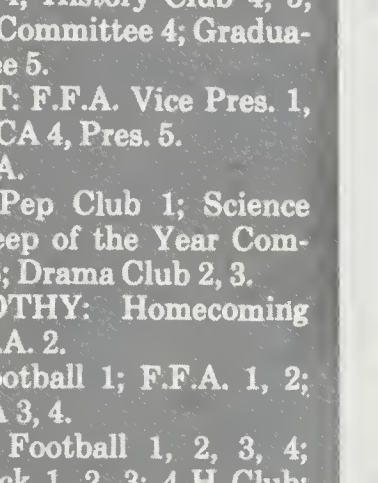

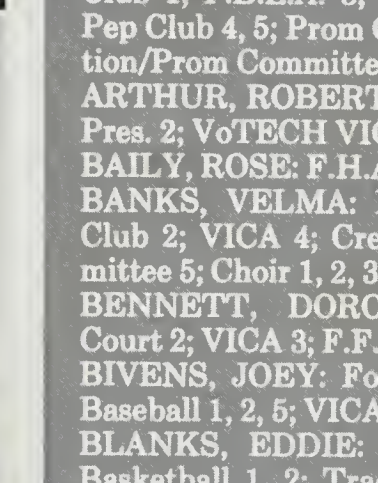

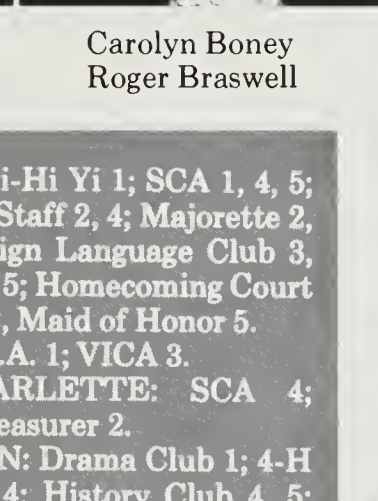

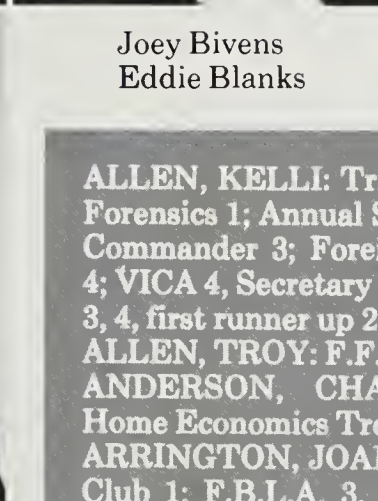

These young people will probably experience the most drastic changes of their lives in the next two to four years. Finding oneself in a cold work-day world, beginning college in a strange environment, or possibly settling down and marrying is in the minds of each and every senior.

The excitement will build as the last days of school draw near. But the final day will bring out emotions and feelings never before encountered. This is a once in a lifetime experience — GRADUATION.

The Joy of Graduation

SENIOR SPONSORS: Seated — Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Price, Mrs. Manson, and Mr. Segedy. Standing — Mrs. Russell, and Mrs. Miers decided to brave us.

Though small in numbers, with only eighty-seven of the class posing for portraits, the Juniors were a spirited minority.

In a class which under the block system had traditionally fewer numbers due to many electing to graduate early. The class should grow in numbers under the six period system.

Bearing the burden of the entire cost for the Junior-Senior prom this year, Juniors became super salesmen selling Christmas ornaments in an effort to raise needed money for all the end of the year activities.

How great it'll be to finally be seniors with the class of '83 taking their place in the financial world.

Sophomores Make Presence Known in Transfer to GCHS

Out of 160 sophomores 127 took pictures for the Eagle '81 class section. Though some are missing, they made their presence known at Pep Rallies and Assemblies. The screams of the baby Eagles won them the "Spirit Banner" in 3 out of 5 competitions during home game pep rallies.

This year's sophomores were also the first of the honors program. Members had to follow an already planned set of classes, which included as prerequisite two years of Latin. Any deviations from such would cause them to be dropped from the program. The system was based mainly on academic achievement and not on behavior.

Remember the Bitter With the Bitter But Brings Nostalgiafest

The 31,622,400 seconds of 1980 brought life, death, natural disasters and continued uncertainties. Ever present in the American consciousness was the plight of the two hostages held in Iran since November 4, 1979 when militants took over the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. Six other Americans escaped Iran after three months of hiding in the Canadian Embassy. An ill Richard Queen was released. Harold Lewis, Lynn McIntosh, Richard Bakke, Charles McMillan, Joel C. Mayo, George M. Holmes, Jr., John Davis, Harvey and Dewey L. Johnson were killed in an aborted mission to rescue the hostages last April. The death of Iran's leader did not change the Iranian demands. Tito of Yugoslavia died, Somoza of Nicaragua was assassinated. Other notable passings from the scene were William O. Douglas, U.S. Supreme Court judge, AFL-CIO's George Meany, Comedian Jimmy Durante, Director Alfred Hitchcock, actors Peter Sellers, Steve McQueen, octogenarians George Raft and Mae West. Existentialist Jean Paul Satre, social philosopher Erich Fromm, child psychologist Jean Piaget, recognized influences on 20th Century Western thought, also died. The deaths of Richard Rodgers, composer of "South Pacific", "Oklahoma", and the "Sound of Music" and Gower Champion whose last show was "42nd Street" were a blow to Broadway and the musical world. Jesse Owens, black track star and recipient of 4 gold medals at the 1936 Munich Olympics also died as did nameless victims of air crashes, volcanic eruptions in Italy and Washington State and more than 1200 persons of heart strokes when temperatures last summer brought death, destruction of crops and drought. Former Beatle John Lennon was gunned down in New York; his untimely death was mourned by millions of fans. Competing with real-life news was the national preoccupation with soap opera episodes and the summer long speculation as to Who shot JR?, the Texas oil baron on "Dallas."

War between Iraq and Iran and the worsening situation in the oil rich Persian Gulf area, intensified with the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, brought President Carter's appeal to boycott the Moscow Olympics. The games at Lake Placid, New York, the U.S. Hockey team won the gold medal over the top-rated Soviets and 21 year old Eric Heiden won a record four gold medals in speed skating. Meanwhile Soviet Andrei Sakharov, a Nobel laureate, was sent into internal exile in Russia for criticizing Soviet intervention in Afghanistan and supporting the Olympics boycott.

Spiraling inflation and interest rates, resultant bankruptcies, the influx of 100,000 Cubans into an already tax-burdened nation, brought mounting dissatisfaction which brought about the defeat of President Carter and the landslide election of Ronald Reagan in November.

On January 20, 1981, the hostages were released a half hour after President Reagan was inaugurated in an agreement made by former President Carter involving billions of dollars in ransom, the total and terms as yet undisclosed to the American taxpayers. But after 44 days of captivity, no one seems to care about details, as the hostages brought national rejoicing.

On the local scene, the three-year old school cost sharing dispute between the city and Greenville County resulted in the city's payment of $68,950 to the county for the city's share of the cost of operating the local schools. Ironically, the county supervisors then appropriated the money for things other than bettering the educational system. Following the settlement, two new school board members from the city, Mrs. Connie Wilson and W. Allan Sharrett were appointed by the Emporia City Council, the first representatives on the Greenville County School Board in a decade.

And the Greenville County's bicentennial celebration got underway in February with the release of a picture album entitled A Treasured Past, edited by Rachel Gobble from memorabilia collected by Douglas Summers Brown.

A placemat of drawings of old historical houses was drawn by Virginia Manson with calligraphy by Barbara Meier, printed by Kelly Phillips in G.C.H.S. Graphic Arts Department for the historical society along with note cards featuring old homes. Other community-oriented bicentennial projects are posters, murals, and an art exhibit from G.C.H.S. classes scheduled for May. The Nostalgiafest celebrating the bicentennial engendered a study of the past, publications and creative efforts to make the 200th year a memorable one.

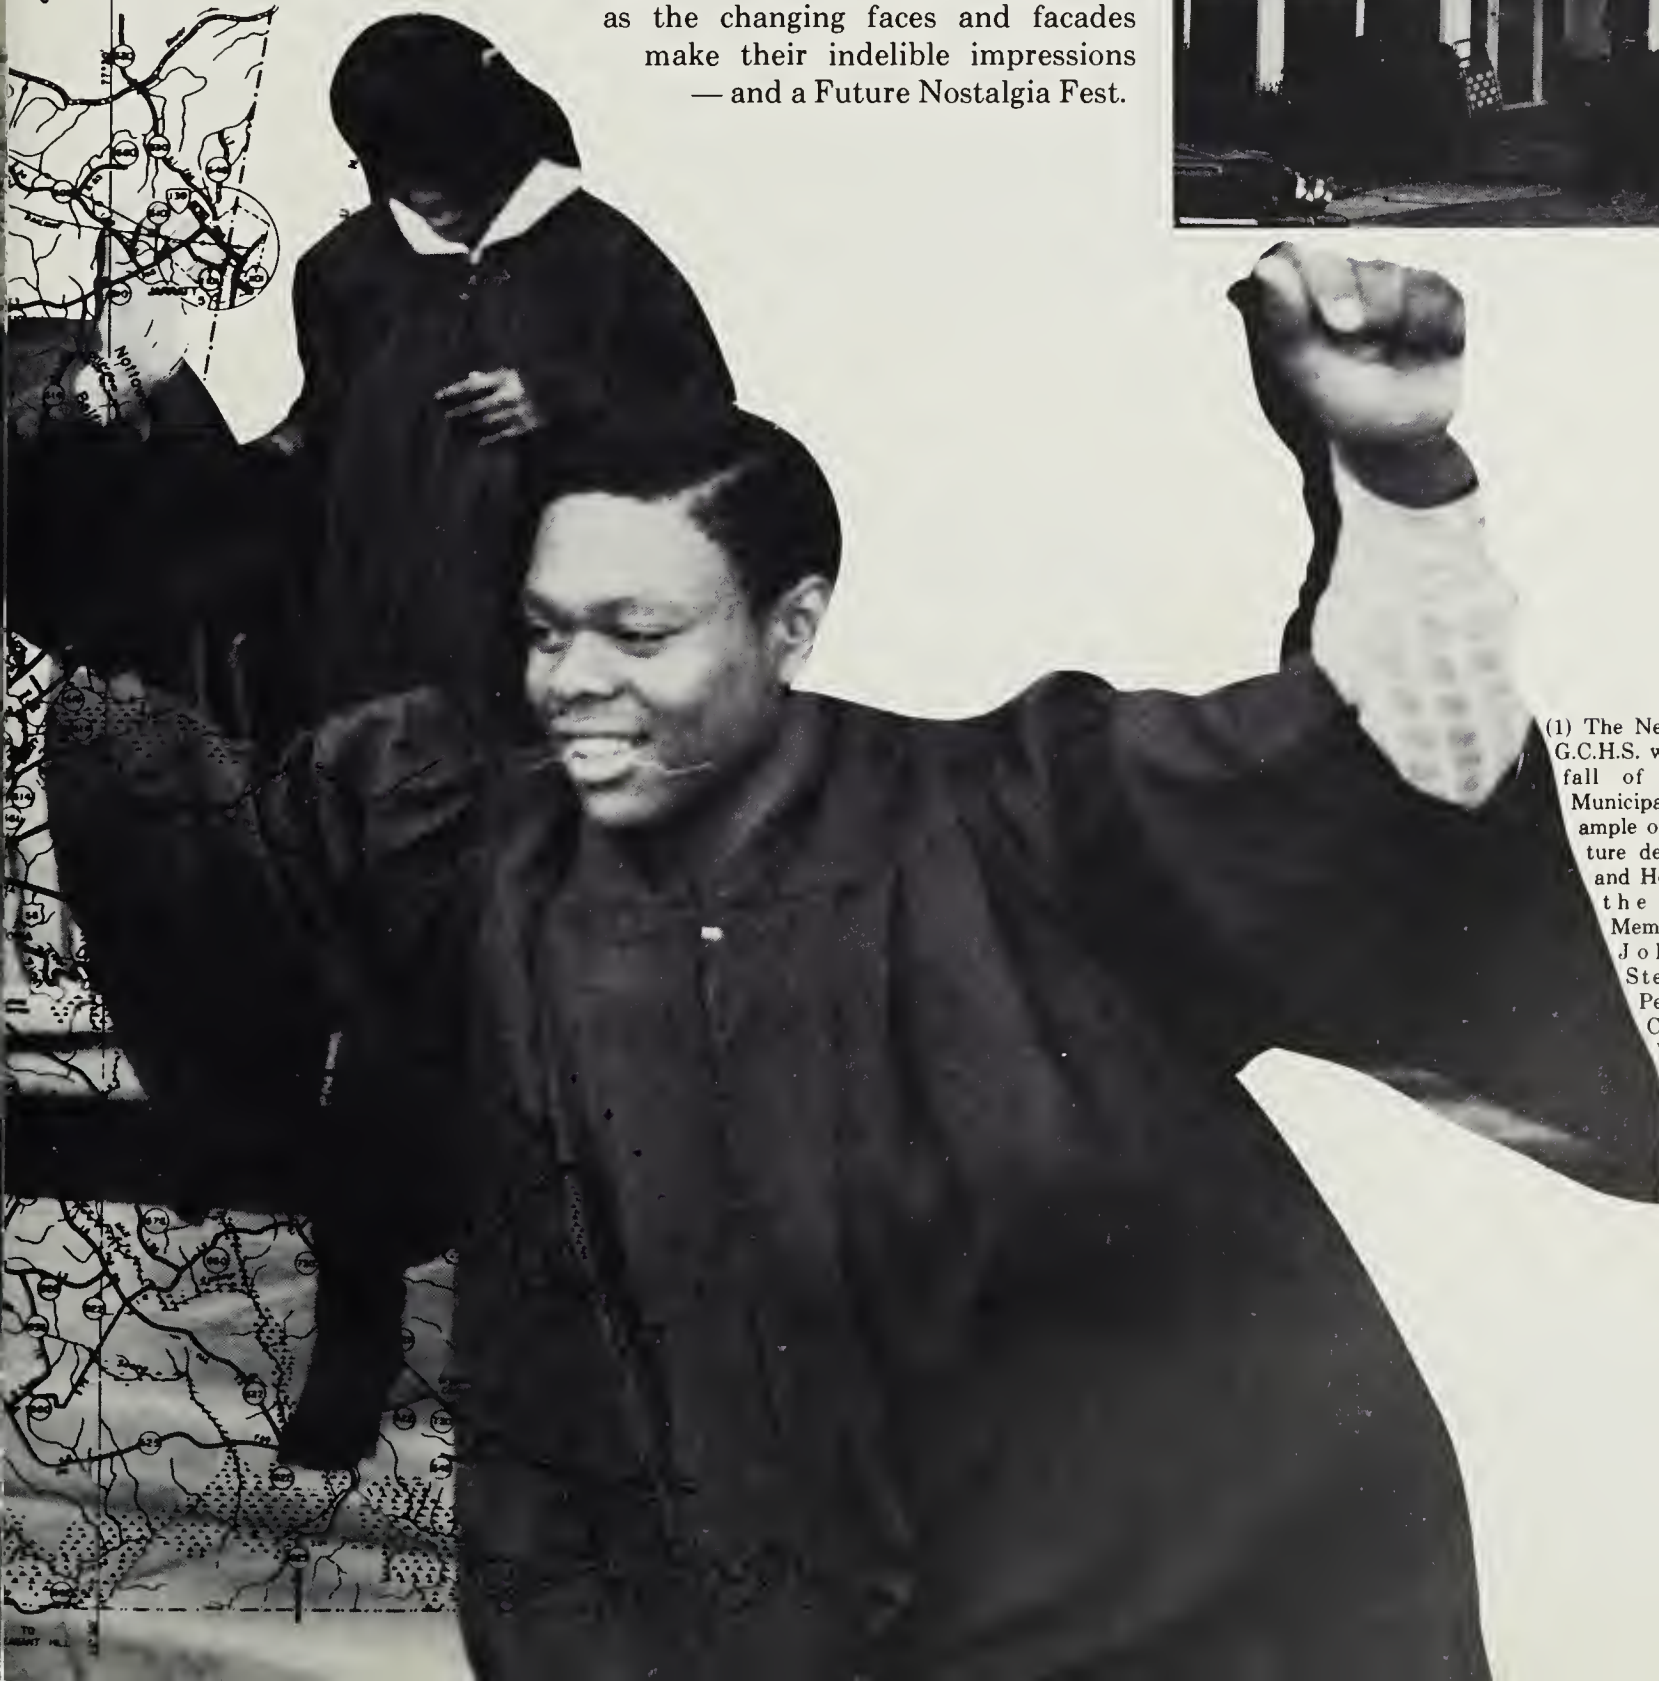

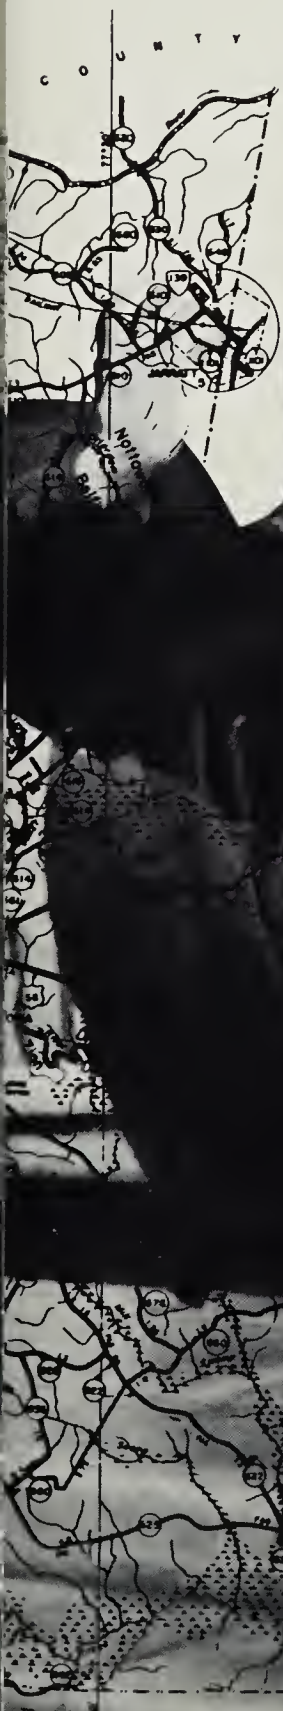

President Reagan

Nostalgiafest in

Greenville County

The Nostalgia Fest goes on and on as Graduating Seniors become a part of the past and carry the memories with them wherever they go. Pride in their achievements, their school, their community, their unselfish service in making their world a better place in which to live and to work, sets a standard which leads to greater self-identity — the kind that belongs and is a part of civilized society, the kind that respects the past accomplishments and hopes to match or surpass them in the future. Graduating in the Bicentennial year was an extra touch from History as students interested in other heritage studied the role this locality played in the forging of a nation. And explored existing sites and movements which testify to the efforts of those who went before as well as contemporary structures which make up modern day Emporia. Here the old co-exist with the new as the changing faces and facades make their indelible impressions — and a Future Nostalgia Fest.

(1) The New Field House at G.C.H.S. was finished in the fall of 1980. (2) The Municipal Building is an example of modern architecture designed by Mosely and Henning. (3) As was the Richardson Memorial Library. (4) John Manson, Stephane Wilson, PeeWee Byers, and Connie Veliky visit Village View. (5) Gov. John Dalton's birthplace is now the home of Ms. Minnie Grizzard. Anita Bryant is on the front porch.

Old and New Businesses Support Our Eagle '81

(1) The Klugel building is a rare example of an iron front building. It is one of three buildings in Emporia on the Historical Landmark Register. The Tazewell-Robinson house was also nominated as an example of an early 18th century home in Greensville County. Records show that Littleton Waller Tazewell, Governor of Virginia (1834-36) spent time here. (2) Emporia boasts nine banks, the latest of which was this branch of the First National Bank. That's Lasonti Powell, Lynn Jessee, Cathy Thompson, Pam Barnes, and Anita Bryant out front.

We appreciate all those who helped make Eagle '81 a reality. Our patrons and advertisers gave us financial support. John Sizemore of the South Side Sun and Adrian O'Connor of the Independent Messenger gave us pictures. Kim Jones, student photographer, gave of her time and talents. Mrs. Pugh and other teachers allowed some of their students to type up copy when we were hard-pressed to make a deadline.

The Eagle '81 staff thanks them all.
